Dr. J. Collis Browne's

CHLORODYNE

COUGHS,
COLD,
ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.

IS THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR DIARRHOEA,
DYSENTERY,
CHOLERA.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE (late Army Medical Staff) DISCOVERED A REMEDY, to denote which he coined the word CHLORODYNE. Dr. Browne is the SOLE INVENTOR, and as the composition of Chlorodyne cannot possibly be discovered by Analysis (organic substances defying elimination), and since the formula has never been published, it is evident that any statement to the effect that a compound is identical with Dr. Browne's Chlorodyne must be false. This caution is necessary, as many persons have been deceived by false representations.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the INVENTOR OF CHLORODYNE, that the whole story of the defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—See The Times, July 18, 1894.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the TRUE PALLIATIVE IN NEURALGIA, GOUT, RHEUMATISM, TOOTHACHE, MIGRAINE.

GENERAL BOARD OF HEALTH, London, REPORT that it ACTS as a CHARM, and is generally being sufficient.

Dr. GIBSON, Army Medical Staff, Calcutta, states: "TWO DOSTS COMPLETELY CURED ME OF DIARRHOEA."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a rapid medicine which soothes PAIN OF EVERY KIND, affords a calm, refreshing sleep, WITHOUT HEADACHE, and invigorates the nervous system when exhausted.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a rapid medicine which soothes PAIN OF EVERY KIND, affords a calm, refreshing sleep, WITHOUT HEADACHE, and invigorates the nervous system when exhausted.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.—The IMITATIONS of this REMEDY are given rise to many UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS. Be careful to observe the Trade Mark. Of all Chemists. In the Straits Settlements, F. M. S. & Co., Ltd., 11, Market Street, Singapore.

AMERICAN SYSTEM OF DENTISTRY.

AT -39, QUEEN'S ROAD CENTRAL, CHADWICK KEW, (LATE OF POATE AND NOBLE.)

near Wood's being now a waiting game, he took up a strongly entrenched position on Kamboula Hill, while sending out from time to time the irregular forces of the Uys and the Redoubt to harass the enemy and provoke them to an attack.

At last this policy had its effect and an immense host of undisciplined savages launched itself with dogged fury against Wood's handful of men, who were now almost alone, except for a few stragglers who were known as "Peking's Greys." On both sides the battle was desperate, but thanks to the cool intrepidity of Col. Wood and the stubborn bravery of his men, it ended in the complete repulse of the savages.

"And when on that glorious 25th March," said Wood himself afterwards at a City banquet, "24,000 Zulus measured their strength for five long hours—they seemed very long to me—against our 1,800 men, and young and old upheld equally the credit of our arms."

It was not till four months later that the Zulus, after this smashing defeat, had the stomach to stand up for a final trial of strength with us at Ulundi, where the presence of Kamboula Hill again played a prominent rôle. "Steady, my lads," Wood bawled to cry more than once, "fire low and not so fast." Evelyn Wood's face, wrote Archibald Forbes, "was radiant with the figure of the fray, and the pulse of his hand, which he played a piano, a storm of bullets." Wood's domestic life was a life of terror and death-battle description. But, from the point of view of his biographer, they suffer from one extremely grave defect—they are too full of the heroism of Evelyn Wood's company, wrote Forbes, "that one hears least of Evelyn Wood."

Nevertheless Wood was over as a bright light shining in a dark place, so that Wesley now wrote to him: "Just a line to congratulate you on your brilliant victory for the State. You and Buller have been the bright spots in this miserable war."

Two names stand out in bold relief, similarly wrote Lord Chelmsford, "the names of Wood and Buller." On his return home, Sir Evelyn—for he had not been knighted—received a splendid reception both in his native county and the city of London, which did its best to do honour to this ideal soldier. And as for the idealism in this ideal soldier, was not this fairly expressed by what he said at a City banquet on the subject of reginal colours which it was proposed to award, as indeed they are no longer accepted into action? "It is suggested that they are cumbersome, and are the cause of mischief. After all they are what?—coloured rag on a stick, and it is worth while to risk men's lives for a piece of tawdry silk? Yegh! right as well say that because honour is life and faith impalpable, they do not exist as lodestars for the mind. Colours are put to check cowardice, to rally fugitives, to inspire attack, the chivalry that is shown in the defence of any high ideal, whatever may be its symbol is surely never wasted."

And it was this sense of chivalry in another form, which caused Sir Evelyn to return to South Africa, neither guide, companion, and comrade of the Empress Eugénie when she went out there to visit the spot where her only son, the heir to an Imperial crown, had fallen beneath the assegai of the Zulus—a mission which caused it to be said by a court official that "as well as Evelyn Wood had done whatever he had, but his hand to, he had never achieved a greater success."

But if in this personal errand to South Africa, Sir Evelyn failed not to achieve a brilliant success, his next mission to the same quarter must be described as of the nature of a successful failure. Colley had been beaten and killed by the insubordinate Boers, and the conqueror of Kamboula Mount was doomed to become the master of Kamboula Hill. Wood, who had been sent out to Natal, was burning with the desire to wipe out the military shame of Majuba, and declared to the Home Government that he had the Boers "in the palm of his hand." But Mr Gladstone's "unanimity," for which we are now so very dearly, overbore the military necessities of the case, and Sir Evelyn Wood, who was civil governor as well as commander-in-chief, exposed himself in the most chivalrous and self-sacrificing spirit to a world of obloquy and misunderstanding, and the army by becoming the instrument of his political chief's policy.

It was now in North Africa that Sir Evelyn sought for the military distinction which had been denied him in the south of the Dark Continent; but also it is to campaign against Arabi in the Sudan that he was condemned to leading a brigade at Tel-el-Kebir. "Desire Sir E. W.," wrote Wololot to Stanley, "to remain on defensive and risk nothing." A useful if inglorious rôle, which, after the campaign, he was asked to exchange for the post of "Sirdar," or Commander-in-Chief of the Egyptian army. As the holder of this high office, he gradually re-organized and turned that army into such a state of perfection as at last enabled it to march pari passu with our own troops on the various stages of our reconquest of the Sudan. To Sir Evelyn, 1884-88, was entrusted the safe-guarding of our long line of communication from Alexandria to Mombasa, but this was his last service in the field.

Yet there are services in the bureau which surpass by public usefulness, if not in theatrical brilliancy, those of the battlefield; and in Full Mail Sir Evelyn has picked even brighter laurels as a civil administrator than as a combatant he culled in the Crimea and on Kamboula Mount. As Quartermaster-General, Commander at Aden, and Adjutant-General, he has done more with any other living war, according to Lord Wololot, to "modernize" the army.

Not Weak.

THE COMMISSIONER OF THE YANGTZE.

News has just received from Peking (says the N. O. Daily News) that Li Ping-hong, late ex-Governor of Shanghai, has been appointed Imperial High Commissioner of the Yangtze, and that, on the 22nd ultimo, he had returned thanks for the high honour conferred on him. The disregard of the dignity of powerful Manchu nobles and officials with which Li Ping-hong performed his duties recently as Investigating High Commissioner in Lower Manchuria, is said to have aroused the confidence of the Empress Dowager, and her first intention was to appoint him Governor of Shanai for which purpose she deposed the unlucky Xia Ping-chih without assigning any open reason for her action. This, as we have on a previous occasion stated, was frustrated by the opposition of the British Consul d'Almeida, Mr. Bax, Iroside. This rather disconcerted the Empress Dowager; but she was determined to find some fitting post for her protégé to show the country her appreciation of such a man, and sought for advice from both Prince Ching and Jung Lu, but these becoming alarmed and jealous at the sudden appearance of a new favourite, declined to assist her in making a choice. As a matter of fact, the Empress Dowager in her admiration of Li wished to create some important post for him, and at one time intended to retain him as a special confidant and adviser. Of course this suited Prince Ching and Jung Lu still less. Like Kang Yi, the eunuchs represented by Prince Ching and Jung Lu did not desire to have Li Ping-hong in the Capital and too near the Empress Dowager, and so one of them suggested the Imperial High Commissioner of the Yangtze as a fitting post for the new favorite. The Empress Dowager seized on the idea; it being a unique post and only held once before in this dynasty, namely, by P'eng Yu-lin of Taining, Zhejiang, famous for his courage, honesty, and ability in the Throne obtained for him the title of the "Iron-headed" Admiral of the Yangtze. The jurisdiction of the Imperial High Commissioner of the Yangtze stretches over the waterways of the provinces, namely, Kiangsu, Kiangsi, Anhui, Hunan, and Huguang, and by virtue of his title he is equal in rank to independent of the Viceroy and Governor of the provinces named above. He has, moreover, the enormous power of executing high commands first and reporting them afterwards to the Throne, making himself responsible to no man except the Emperor above him. In the nature of things, the power of the High Commissioner frequently clashes with the territorial rights of the provinces concerned. When P'eng Yu-lin, the "Iron-headed," held the post, he also was Commander-in-Chief of the naval forces of the five provinces, which Li Ping-hong will probably not be, as the present holder is Kuang Chai-lun who has the rank of a Kang-shan, or a "Frederic Morel," in connection with the above Steamer, are hereby informed that their Goods are being landed at their late into the Godowns of the HONGKONG AND KOWLOON WHARF AND GODOWN COMPANY, at Kowloon, whence and/or from the Wharves delivery may be obtained.
